ANOTHER FIRE AT CONSORT

LOSS IS PLACED AT $100,000

Last Monday night Consort was visited by another fire, the third this year. The Crown Lumber Co. lost their entire stock, valued at $80,000, including sheds and office. Two barns the blacksmith shop and a garage were also destroyed.

The fire started in H. Wiltse's barn and was driven to the adjacent premises by the high wind. The reflection in the sky could be seen for miles around.

Total loss of ships, last week, by mines or submarines, was 23.

There has been very little infantry fighting during the past week on the west front.

On some sections of the east lines, the Russians are still retreating.

The first draft of U. S. men will be called to the colors on Sept. 1st.

The Bill authorizing the Government taking over the whole C. N. Ry. system, is now before the House. It will no doubt pass.

ESTRAY

1 Iron Gray Mare, 3 years old, oval shaped white mark on forehead, small lump at back of right ear, no visible brands, weight 1000. $20.00 Reward. These mares left Compeer July 30th. Above reward will be paid for their recovery. R. H. Brett Compeer.

Small Bay Mare, cropped ears, branded H2 on shoulder and hip.
Suitable reward for recovery.
Lynn Wiltse Monitor

Considerable machinery is going out of town these days and the implement agents all report a good business, this year.

There are reports of light frost, in many localities, during the week. Potatoes and other garden stuff has been touched, but the frost has not been heavy enough to damage the crops.

A mistake was made, in last week's issue, in giving the date of the birth of W. and Mrs. Schroer's daughter. It should have been July 14th, and not the 21st, as stated.

The Prize Lists of the Wheat-sheaf Agricultural Society's Annual Fair are now ready for distribution. Ask the Secty, J. Stokoe, Bideford, for a copy. The Fair will be held on Aug. 21st at Bideford.

W. E. Gishwiller is renewing old acquaintanceships, around the district, this week. He is representing the Adanne Grain Co., and is living in Saskatoon. While in town he called at the 'News' office and renewed his subscription for two years.

Rev. W. S. Wickenden, B. A. will conduct Divine Service (D. V.) on Sunday next, Aug. 5, as follows:

Monitor 11 a. m.
Neutral Hills 3 p. m.
Little Gap 7.30 p. m.
All welcome.

Boy Scouts will meet in the Anglican Church on Tuesdays and Fridays at 7.30. Choir Practice Fridays at 8.

H. McCarron was a visitor at Moose Jaw during the week.

Altho the price of wheat has been set at $2.40, many buyers have evaded the law by giving a bonus or premium. This is offered those who have wheat for sale and is added over and above the price set by the Grain Commissioners. The bonus is a few cents per bushel.

The Squire's Sweetheart

BY

KATHARINE TYNAN

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED
London, Melbourne, and Toronto

"Hullo, Strangways! When did you come?"

"Only today to find the Squire in town and not expected back till tomorrow."

"Anything the matter?"

The Vicar had become aware of a certain disorder in Hilary's aspect. The young gentleman had always been remarkable for a clean, shining, well-polished air, borne out by his irregular face, his clear complexion, and golden hair.

"I might ask what is the matter with you?" Hilary responded, "but I won't. I am worried, confoundedly worried. I have just been told that the gossip-mongers here are saying that—"

"I know. It is about Lady South, is it not?"

There was something of uncertainty in the manner of his speech which Hilary did not notice.

"Yes, it is about Lady South; of course it is a lie!"

"It is, unfortunately, quite true that Sir Gilbert is seeking to divorce her. I have just come from there. If he had not been an old man, and a miserable one at that, I should have struck him—not for his insolence to me, but for the things he said about his wife and daughter."

A red spot came into Mr. Pritchard's cheeks and his lips were very rigid.

"How long has this been known?" asked Hilary.

"The citation has only just been served. I don't know how those women got hold of it so soon. They scent out everything."

"They had better not say it to me," said Hilary violently. "My dearest hope is that Margaret South will become my wife. That poor woman! It will kill her as surely as though a knife were driven through her heart."

He went off, too agitated to say good-bye, and the Vicar walked on to his own house, where a bad cook did her worst for him in the serene certainty that the master would never know the difference. The Rev. Bertram Pritchard took things exceedingly hard. The misdoings of the black sheep among his flock had often left him comfortless before. Now he walked as though his feet were as heavy as lead.

"I wish there was no truth in it," he muttered to himself. "The poor souls! Yet they have one stout champion—God bless him!"

Then he sighed for another trouble. Was he not to be spared, however innocent? Certainly the Vicar took things too hard. He had never become accustomed to the things that happened. He had blood fiery in his denunciation of slander and evil-speaking, bringing upon himself the dislike of Mrs. De Montmorency and her kind, without having any appreciable effect upon their tongues.

He had been almost comfortless. Yet comfort came to him, and his head was lifted with some thought.

"Poor little girl!" he said to himself, and he was not thinking of Margaret South. "No one will dare to think ill of her when she is the Squire's wife, still less to speak ill of her. Myrick can defend his own—thank God!"

CHAPTER XVI.

Love Lies Bleeding

Hilary's first impulse was to turn about and go straight to Sir Gilbert South; but the Vicar discouraged him.

"My dear boy," he said, "there isn't the slightest use. He knows quite well the wrongness of the thing he is doing. No man could get a divorce from the wife whom his conduct had driven from his house so that she might have an operation to save her life, and then to drag her in the mud, that is all. He has some sort of insane hatred for her, poor gentle lady; and for his daughter, and for the man who has done what you or I or any other man with a sense of duty should do if it came our way."

Hilary went back to Silverthorne ruefully. He had a great mind to return to town that night. For the first time, he was up in arms against Silverdale, calling it opprobrious names in his own mind because of its gossip. In London no one had time for such a thing. He wanted to see Mr. Langton, to know what was going to be done. He said to himself that somehow or other Lady South must be kept out of it, taken away from it. His poor girl, too, so proud and innocent. Oh, it was too—the boy ground out words between his teeth on which the Recording Angel surely dropped a tear.

He went through his dinner in silence, which, being reported on in the servant's hall, caused much uneasy speculation as to what was wrong with Master Hilary, or what "he'd been a-doin' of." The cook had sent him up an excellent little dinner, considering that it was an impromptu. The head gardener had cut his very first bunch of ripe grapes in honor of the occasion. Hilary merely toyed with one or two of them—would have let them pass if he had not been reminded by the butler that the gardener had done him special honor in cutting the grapes.

The first fire of the year had been lit in the library. There was plenty of time for Hilary to consider the matter of returning to town, for there was no train before ten o'clock. He did not know how he was going to get through the time intervening. His thoughts worked upon each other as the corn is ground between the stones of a mill. His brain felt overstimulated. He was restless to be doing something.

He got up from his chair and began to walk up and down the library, so soon as the servant had departed, having left cigars and cigarettes at his elbow. His feet in the Turkey carpets made no sound. He wanted to be out doing something. Earlier in the afternoon he had thought that he would look in on the Egertons. He liked Lionel Egerton; and he had liked Mrs. Egerton before this afternoon, while looking upon her as something incomprehensible. Now he liked her no longer. He made a wry face. He thought upon her and was sorry for her husband.

He could not go to see anyone. He was so wretchedly ill at ease that he would be incapable of concealing his emotions. Ten o'clock. It would be nearly eleven by the time he reached town. What matter! Mr. Langton was not likely to keep early hours. Anyhow he would try to find him. He might be at that house among the fields which Hilary had not been able to locate. He supposed it was somewhere north or northwest of London. He had not followed the way the motor took that night, and he was not gifted with a sense of topography, so that beyond the Strand and the west end streets he knew little of London.

Now and again he glanced at the clock. Nine o'clock. When one dines alone and plays with one's foot one gets finished quickly. There would be ample time, if he started to walk at twenty minutes before the train time. He was not going to take a horse out—not he. The walk would do him good. He would have started at once if he had not been afraid of going by the old station master, who had known him from the time he was a child, and would insist on his coming in to wait by the fire and talk to Mrs. Hall. Hilary valued all these friendships, but he simply could not talk to people to-night.

While he fretted the door opened and the Squire came in.

"Hello, Squire," said Hilary, with a mechanical cheerfulness. "We didn't expect you home tonight."

To himself he said: "I can't possibly get away now, the minute he comes. How am I going to stick it till tomorrow?"

The Squire came up to the fire and warmed his hands at the blaze; suddenly Hilary was struck dumb by the calamity which lay upon his face as it was revealed in the firelight. He looked a man who had received a blow from which he still reeled.

"What is the matter, Don?" Hilary asked, recovering himself. The Squire's face frightened him. With a lover's egoism his thoughts flew to Margaret. Had anything happened? "There is nothing wrong—with—with—"

"An extraordinary thing has happened, Hilary," said the Squire, still warming his hands and looking as cold as a stone. The lifelessness of his face had something terrifying about it. "It is—Dolly. She and Mrs. Bartlett left the studio this morning about eleven. They have not returned. I do not know what to do."

"But, my dear Don," Hilary said, with relief in his voice. "Is that all? Only this morning! Why, there are a hundred possible explanations of their absence. They might—"

"Dolly expected me this afternoon. She was always waiting for me, and we used to go out together. I have been sitting there in the studio for nearly five hours. Every time I heard a foot on the stone staircase or the corridor outside—"

He turned away his head without concluding the sentence; and Hilary understood, as he would not have understood a little while ago.

Alberta Dairy Statistics

The growth of the dairy industry of Alberta is to be seen in the fact that in 1910 there were 147,687 dairy cows in the province, with a value of dairy products of $7,953,847, while in 1916 there were 215,033 cows and an estimated value of products of $12,500,000. Two million and a half pounds of butter were produced in 1911, and 100,000 pounds of cheese; eight millions and a half pounds of butter in 1916 and 375,000 pounds of cheese.

Sailors Paid To Smuggle Letters

How German Plotters Get Mail Into United States

Federal authorities investigating suspected methods of communication between the United States and Germany announced the seizure of a bundle of letters, including communications which, arriving from the central powers, apparently were intended to reach Alexander von Nuber formerly Austrian consul-general in New York. Von Nuber left after the government investigated charges that he shipped resisters to Austria under fraudulent passports in 1915.

How the letters now confiscated were to reach von Nuber has not been disclosed nor was his present whereabouts announced. The letters were brought by sailors on a Scandinavian steamship and delivered to a saloon keeper in Hoboken. The plan, according to the investigators, was for the mail to be re-addressed so that it would appear to be correspondence from the United States.

The sailors admitted they were paid to smuggle mail past the British censors and promised to testify for the government if needed. Some of the letters were addressed to persons in New Zealand, Australia and India.

Red Tape in France

An incident at a French port which shows that red tape is not unknown on the other side of the channel even yet is related by the Club in the Pall Mall Gazette. The big hoists ceased to work because the supply of coal had run out. For 18 hours they remained at a standstill until at last a supply was delivered. Meantime the British transport officer fumed and threatened and pointed to his cargo waiting to be unloaded—4,000 tons of coal!

Note and Comment

All those who are earning less than three thousand dollars a year and would not accept more for fear of the income tax, please stand up.

Germany's speculation as to whether or not she should demand indemnities reminds us of the time we've wasted wondering what we'd do if we had a million dollars.

Monitor has been enjoying a period of steady growth, during the past six months. Considerable property has changed hands, both business and residential deals being put through.

The C. P. R., owners of the townsite, have also sold twenty lots since the first of the year.

The local freight sheds will be enlarged by a thirty foot addition, to meet the rapidly increasing tonnage at this point.

With five elevators to handle the crops there should be no danger of a blockage, here.

There has always been a fine opening, here, for a doctor, and now one has been procured.

Crop conditions are looking better every day, and, while the oat crop is bound to be light, the yield of wheat will be good.

With the frost holding off for another two or three weeks, we are assured of a continuance of prosperity, for we in town depend on the country, and conditions in the country govern conditions in the town.

A new edition of the Saskatchewan Homestead Map, a most useful publication both from the standpoint of the settler and the businessman, has just been issued by the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior. The primary object of the map is to afford reliable information to the prospective settler as to lands open for location.

The color scheme adopted in former editions of the map has been simplified in this, the 15th edition. The land has been divided into two main classes.

The first of these represents that which has been already patented and the second shows that which was entered for but has not yet been patented. In addition to these divisions the various colors indicate forest reserves, Dominion parks, timber berths, grazing leases, Dominion Land Offices, and coal areas. The areas uncolored and shown as surveyed are available for settlement. Another very important feature shown is the precise location of the railroads—those great arteries of trade—while other topographical features such as the position of lakes and rivers are also indicated.

Application to the Superintendent of the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, will procure a copy free of charge.

Wealth is, after all, only the difference between income and expenditure. So is debt.

In the good old days a gentleman used to call on his lady friend with much formality and stately ceremony. Nowadays he merely drives up and honks for her to come out.

Harvest is on in full swing, in many localities adjacent to Monitor. In some places it will be two weeks yet before the wheat will be ready to cut. Some oats are fit to cut, but the straw is very short.

Are you keeping up your payments to the Patriotic Fund?
The money is needed.

Recently three cows that stood side by side were tested for nine consecutive milkings.

The first cow had an average test of 3.78 per cent. of fat, the maximum and minimum tests being 2.9 and 5.5.

The second cow had an average for the nine tests of 4.2 with maximum and minimum tests of 2.4 and 5.4.

The average test for the third cow was 2.6, with extremes of 2.0 and 4.0.

Hence it is evident that the laudable desire to know what a certain cow's milk tests for fat may be defeated entirely if only one sample is run through the machine. In the light of the examples given above, as well as of hundreds of other instances on record, it is safe to conclude that a fair method is to test a composite sample of five or six milkings taken at intervals when the cow is in normal condition. This plan has given good results in the cow testing work of the Dairy Division, Ottawa. Write for full particulars so that your good cows may not be misjudged on an isolated test.

No man is indispensable, especially a husband.

The harvest is great, but the laborers are few. Every person who can help with the harvest, and who doesn't, shirks a national duty.

Ontario will harvest the biggest oat crop, in the history of that province, this year. The yield will total 125,000,000 bushels, or more than 25 million bushels greater than any previous oat crop.

Invest your savings in the Government's War Certificates. These can be purchased for as low as $21.50, and yield 5%.

Drunk In The Air

Gunner Sound Asleep Was Captured
By British Pilot

One of the most humorous incidents of the war occurred very long ago in Northern France. A big enemy biplane was attacked by a little British single-seater, the pilot of which fired a few shots at long range. When he came closer he found there was no answering fire from the passenger in the after seat. Having sheltered himself behind the tail of the German machine he intended to pop up and shoot him when he offered an easy mark clear of the tail and accordingly he flew out and put a few more shots diagonally into the front of the enemy's machine.

The pilot thereupon put his nose down and landed right on a British aerodrome! When the machine landed, soldiers went out to fetch in the prisoners, and at first they thought the pilot had brought the machine away by himself, as there was no sign of a passenger. Then they looked into the after cockpit, however, and found the gunner curled up in a heap on the floor. They thought he was dead or badly hit, and were considering which was the best way to get him out when they were startled by a loud snore from the cockpit.

Thereupon they yanked the gentleman out by the collar and found there was not a scratch on him. He was merely gloriously drunk and asleep.

The pilot, who was described as "comfortably old," smiled benignly on his captors and remarked that but for his drunken gunner he would have put up a decent fight, but in the circumstances he thought he had done all he could.

Control Of Exports

Enormous Power in Hands of the United States

"The United States has an enormous power in its hands today in its control of exports to European neutrals," said Lord Cecil, the minister of blockade, in a talk on this subject. "I do not like to express any opinion as to the policy which would guide it in the exercise of this power," continued Lord Robert. "That is the United States' business, not ours. However, we have had three years of intensive experience in blockade and everything we have learned during that time is at the disposal of the United States."

The United States has the power of making any bargain and stipulation it thinks proper with these neutrals, and this is a very important weapon against Germany. The food stuffs which Germany obtains from Holland and Denmark alone must be measured in hundreds of thousands of tons, while the mineral and fish exports of the Scandinavian nations are of vital importance to Germany.

PAIN? NOT A BIT! LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezone. Apply a drop or two directly upon tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation, not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezone or afterwards.

This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It is like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful corns on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.

Real Mermaids In Hamilton

Spaniard Possesses Two Most Curious Creatures, Half Human, Half Fish

J. E. Smith, a Spaniard residing in Hamilton, Ont., possesses two creatures that are probably unique. He considers them to be mermaids. Though these are described as "fabulous" or "fictitious" creatures in the dictionaries, the creatures in Mr. Smith's hands have heads shaped like those of human beings and bodies that are distinctly fish-like. One is much larger than the other, and is considered to be the mother, and reckoned to be 300 years old. Both have fine hair like a human being, and a small moustache and beard. The head is attached to a human-like neck which merges into the fish-like body, and the arms are something like those of a monkey, only that the fingers are webbed. He has been offered $700 for his curios. It is said that the creatures were found in the wreck of a ship in the Arabian Sea.

Where to Look for Immigrants
J. S. Dennis of the C. P. R. says, "Canada's hope for new population lies in the U.S., and N.W. Europe." It is obvious that immigration can only be carried on in the British Isles incidentally. In the United States there is a great number of young men who leave the farms for big cities yearly as land is not procurable. By placing good inducements before them they might perhaps be persuaded to come to Canada.

Increase in C.P.R. Earnings

For the month of April the C.P.R. shows an increase of net profits of $441,241.65 over the corresponding month last year.

The company is talking of increasing their freight rates 15 per cent. The net profits do not look as though this is necessary at the present time. Net profits for the first four months of this year $12,529,822.74—which is an increase of $900,035.44 over the net profits during the corresponding four months of last year.

A Paying Side Line

Merchandise Washed Ashore Salvaged by Villagers

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," and though times have been hard for the inhabitants of the East Coast towns of England this war time, there are many dwellers by the sea who have profited in an unexpected, though tragic manner, by the "rightfulness" of the Hun.

The ravages of the U-boats have added materially to the harvest of the sea, and during the past few months whole shiploads of merchandise have been washed ashore to be salvaged by the villagers.

The spoils have consisted principally of timber and margarine, though earlier in the season the Hun sent us a cargo of industrial ruin in many cases sound and eatable. A few weeks ago great tins and cases of butter and margarine came rolling in on the waves.

A large quantity was quite uneatable, and the rest sandy and soaked with sea water, was collected in carts for distribution to munition factories, first going through some cleansing process.

This salvage work forms a profitable side line for the villagers. Each man makes his individual haul with his name, carts and wagons collect the spoils for the admiralty, and the salvors eventually obtain for their labor two-thirds of the value of the goods when they have been sold.

At the present moment, at one small place on the East Coast, there is a recent wreck to the tune of some hundreds of pounds, of which amount, roughly, two-thirds benefit the local garrisons.

Family Trait

At the annual prize day of a certain school, the head boy rose to give his remarks. "Friends, Romans, countrymen," he vociferated, "lend me your ears." "There," commented the mother of a boy in the front row, "that's his father's Big Boy! He wouldn't be his mother's son if he didn't want to borrow something."—Tit-Bits.

Makes a Difference

Plenty of Guns Keep the Germans on the Move

A Tommy was discussing the open warfare. "This break away from trench war gives us a much better time," he said. "We know now that we are keeping the Germans on the move. And they're busy all the time wondering; they don't know where the next attack is coming from. Mind you, I'm far from saying that we've completely got them away from the Hindenburg line without a bit of scrapping yet, but it is only a question of time. It's a different position going over the top now from what it was in the early days. You see, we used to know that our guns were not nearly so many as the Germans' and that we hadn't the stuff to put over. We knew that it depended how quickly we could get through the Boche barrage and into among the blighters with the bayonet. Now, we just climb out of a trench and walk behind the curtain of fire. It makes a difference."

Turkish Army's Serious Condition

According to reliable advices from Asia-Minor the Turkish army is in the most serious plight of any period of the war on account of the depletion of man-power from the ravages of epidemics and from actual starvation as a result of the failure of the commissariat. All classes of the gendarmere are mobilized to fill the gaps.

It is said the spread of mutiny among Arab and Kurd troops has become so alarming that Enver Pasha, the Turkish war-minister, is rushing to Mesopotamia in an effort to cope with them.

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, listless, peevish, and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, corrects these faults of the digestion and serves to restore the organs to healthy action.

Changing Interests

"Educational standards change in war time."
"Yes. In peace, education is devoted to reading and writing. In war, it's feeding and fighting."—Washington Star.

HOW IS YOUR APPETITE?

Loss of appetite during the summer months is a common trouble, and indicates that the digestive system is out of order. Lacking a healthy appetite many people—especially women—go too long without food, or eat sparingly because food seems to distress them, and it is no wonder that they complain that they are constantly tired and unable to stand the hot weather. This simply means that the digestive system is not doing its proper work, and that the nutriment that should come from the food is not being distributed to the various organs of the body. In other words the blood is growing thin and watery.

You need a summer tonic, and in all the realm of medicines there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Take a short treatment with these pills now and notice how promptly your appetite returns and your power to digest food improves. Your food will then do you good, your strength will return and you will no longer complain that the hot weather tires you out.

The best time to begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the moment you feel the least bit out of sorts. The sooner you so the sooner you will regain your old time energy. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The professor was showing a friend round his chemical laboratory. "What has become of Jim Filibottle?" the friend asked. "Wasn't he studying with the class last week?"
"Ah, yes," replied the professor. "Filibottle, poor fellow! A fine student, but absentminded in the use of chemical apparatus. That slight discoloration on the ceiling—notice it?"
"Yes."
"That's Filibottle."—Wit and Humor.

More Honey Wanted

Sugar is an important war food, its price is high and there will be probably a shortage in the near future. Honey is getting more popular every year and present indications point to a greater demand and possibly higher prices. Bee keepers should get busy and produce as much honey as possible this year as they will not only increase their returns but will be helping the empire.

Manitoba produced 800,000 pounds of honey in 1916, and Canada for 1917 is 1,000,000 pounds.—Journal of Agriculture.

Stranded in England

Pathetic Position of Canadian Women Who Went Overseas

According to the London newspapers, about 40,000 dependents of Canadian soldiers are stranded in this country—wives and children who either followed their menfolk across to be as near them as possible while they were on active service, or came over to see them in hospital after they had been wounded.

They are not stranded in the ordinary sense of the word, for no cases of want have been reported. But it seems impossible for them to return to Canada now or for some time to come, owing to lack of passenger accommodation, and it is stated that even were the war to end soon fully eighteen months must elapse before tonnage could be spared to transport a large body of people.

The position of some of these Canadian visitors is pathetic. There are many whose menfolk are actually back in Canada themselves, wounded and discharged from the army. Others have lost those whom they followed to this country and are anxious to return to their homes and relatives. Recently the admiralty has been able to find room for a few women and children on returning transport, and it is hoped to continue this assistance.

Official Announcement

Is Eagerly Awaited

Result of 'Comb Out' in Britain Is Kept Secret

The result of England's great spring "comb out," to raise an army of 500,000 for Sir W. Robertson is eagerly awaited. Absolute secrecy has surrounded the details of the nation's latest effort to procure men. Whether the full complement of 500,000 has been obtained will not be known until the official announcement, but it is certain that several hundred thousand of our hitherto exempted have been drafted.

The "comb out" plan started with a withdrawal of many men from formerly "protected" occupations, chiefly the munitions factories, where old men from less essential trades took the places. A rigid search for slackers was also instituted. Popular sentiment throughout England has supported the "comb out." This is almost England's last sweep of humanhood. If it has failed, or if still more men are required, one of two things is inevitable—the raising of the age limits, or the withdrawal of men essential in industry.

Dogs Of War In Macedonia

Every Man Carries a Gun to Protect Himself Against Hungry Beasts

Everywhere are the dogs in Macedonia. In this country of shepherds every peasant's cottage has a moving fringe of dogs. In the east the dog is neither fed nor petted, so that he feels himself an outcast and despised. During this war one army and then the other has swept over northern Macedonia, driving the peasants before them. The dogs have been left behind. At night one hears them howling on the desolate hills.

The tainted breeze that came down the valley hints at the ghastly food on which they live. By day every man shoots at every dog save the few that cling close to an inhabited cottage. They slink, coyote fashion, behind rocks. At night one hears their feet padding behind him on the lonely roads. Their eyes shine in the glare of the electric torch. Everyone carries arms. Macedonia at night, not against man, but as a protection against the dogs.—Herbert Gray in the National Geographic Magazine.

Patriotic Offer Made

A plan has been formed by the National Service Commission, the Manufacturers' Association and the Department of Agriculture of Quebec by which laborers in the factories will be placed at the disposal of farmers for about four weeks, providing they be paid $8 per week in addition to board and lodging. Manufacturers undertake to pay such employees half their wages during their absence. It is to be hoped the farmers in need of labor will hasten to take advantage of this generous and patriotic offer of the manufacturers.—Journal of Agriculture.

Back To The Fatherland

Exodus of Hebrews From All Parts of the World to Holy Land Anticipated by Strauss

A Jewish nation with modern cities, a free government and a population of two million, will be established in Palestine after the war, in the opinion of Nathan Strauss, philanthropist.

He looks for a marked exodus of Jews from the United States and other countries, back to their fatherland. Religious Jews, he believes, will not hesitate to give up their wealth and property in America and return to Palestine to fulfill the Biblical prophecy. Strauss also expects thousands of Christians to go there. "We will establish a government along whatever lines the allies suggest," declared Strauss. "There is no selfishness about it. The Bible says we will have our own country back and the Allies are winning it back. They must decide what is best."

He indicated, however, that a republican form of government under a protectorate of the powers would be best. Asked whether the country would be modernized, as Manila has been, he said: "Given half a chance, we will make it the paradise of the earth. It will be up-to-date in every particular. The Palestine soil is better than that of California—I'm satisfied of that through my own experiments. The Jewish nation will be self-supporting. I don't think we will establish great industries and compete in the world trade because the country will be more of a religious community than a commercial one. Palestine will support two million people, and it only has 600,000 now. Educationally and religiously it will be the promised land of the whole world."

German Writes

Of Revolt Ahead

Letter on Prisoner Tells of Capitalists Fears; Poor Fight Put Up by Hun Airmen

Reports from the British front contain extracts from the letter of a German soldier found in a captured dugout. It says:

"My Dear Boy—I can't tell you how sorry I am you are being led to the slaughter bench, but I have sworn if any mistake is overtake you I will have revenge on the dogs who let you in for this. The cowardly capitalist party is terribly afraid of the revolution which is coming as soon as the war is ended, or before."

The captured diary of a German stretcher-bearer, beginning May 27, alludes continually to the fact the British shells deprive the Germans of shelter, wipe out their dugouts, and force them into the open. There are many references in captured letters to British air supremacy, in which there are many sneers at the poor fight put up by the German airmen.

Somewhat the fact it is much safer to bombard open towns than to fly over the British lines.

Russian Prisoners Starve in Germany
Many hundreds thousands of Russian prisoners in Germany have already died and more are dying from famine and tuberculosis, according to a letter sent by Messrs. Borodine and Sarnoski of the Russian mission to the Red Cross War Council. The prisoners receive "less than one-half a pound of bread per day and besides this very small quantity of unwholesome potatoes and the worst kind of coffee," the letter said.

The Red Cross is asked by the commission to do everything possible to obtain from Copenhagen at the present time a quantity of bread sufficient at least for the first month, while Russian organizations are preparing to meet the difficulty.

May Declare War

Funds of Teutons Will Be Seized if Mexico Plunges

According to prominent Mexicans, who assert that war will be declared against Germany within a month, all German money in Mexico City, Torreon, Chihuahua City and other banks will be seized as soon as war is declared; the German boats in Tampico and other ports will be seized, thereby giving Mexico a much-needed merchant fleet, and all Germans will either be interned or deported at once, their properties being confiscated. The Tampico oil fields will be made safe for the oil supply of the Allied fleets by declaring a zone in which traffic would be restricted, and the mines, smelters and mills reopened at once to produce munitions metals for the Allies.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets cure these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Diagnosed With War

Scarcity of Food Sowing Seeds of Discontent Among Teutons

The appearance of the Rumanian troops, their equipment and their artillery, are all excellent. The orders given to the Prussian divisions on the Rumanian front are that the soldiers shall keep on a strict defensive and never show themselves out of the trenches. As a result of this, the artillery fire increases. The Germans hurriedly leave the first line trenches. The artillery is provided at present with inferior material. Prisoners taken lately confess that they are very much disgusted with the war. Scarcity of food is becoming greater and the ration of bread, which is of bad quality, has been reduced in quantity. The only thing which prevents the men deserting is the threat that their families in Germany will be subjected to vexations by the government.

Knitting for American Navy

Women have not been able to monopolize the knitting craze in Milwaukee. There is an old man at 2121 Thiet street, who can rattle the knitting needles faster than most feminine knitters. Until recently he has been knitting for pasture. Hereafter he is going to knit for the navy. The man knitter is Frederick Droege, 78 years old, who learned to knit when he was a shepherd boy in Pommern, Germany.

Censorship Of Outgoing Cables

U.S. Believes Valuable Information Is Reaching the Teutons

Censorship of outgoing cables undoubtedly will be made much more rigid to prevent spies from sending information to the enemy. Many officials believe information is reaching Germany now in the form of commercial messages—cabled from the United States to European neutral countries. Already it is said the government is changing the wording of messages.

Reports that German insurance companies operating in this country have easy access to confidential information having to do with shipping and the despatch of troops have prompted the government to investigate their activities. Secretary Redfield said he thought the operation of these companies should be kept under a close and continuous scrutiny.

A Sure Corrective of Flatulency.

When the indigestible food lies in the stomach it throws off gases causing pain and oppression in the stomach and the belching or eructation of these gases is offensive and the only way to prevent them is to restore the stomach to proper action. Parmedee's Vegetable Pills will do this. Simple directions go with each packet and a course of them taken systematically is certain to effect a cure.

Ruined Ability

Will This Man Yet Make Good?

A remarkable story was told of the career of Roger H. Moe-Levy, aged 25, who was charged at Westminster with wearing an officer's uniform and decorations without authority. Joining the army in Australia, the accused, who was said to possess great ability, obtained a commission and served in Egypt, but was dismissed for drunkenness and sent back to Australia.

Qualified as a master mariner, he returned to England, got to New York and "skipped" to Canada. There he joined the Mounted Rifles, became a scout sergeant, and was chosen with others for service in the R.F.C. in England.

Again his abilities were recognized and, anticipating his promotion, he obtained a captain's uniform and was found wearing the D.S.O. with Zulu, Egypt, and other decorations to which he was not entitled, and passing as Captain Maxwell Farnham.

He escaped from arrest, and, dismissed from the Flying Corps, enlisted in the machine gun section of the New Zealand forces, where his antecedents were found out.

Mr. Horace Smith, the judge, said he seemed a very clever man—too clever.

Captain Shand: Yes. And he is not a coward. I believe he wanted to get back to the fighting line, but unfortunately he is not good enough. His ruin has been his desire to put on "swank" and fast living. He obtained 70 pounds from one officer in the Flying Corps, but he had a reasonable expectation that he could repay it when he got a commission.

When arrested the defendant said his one desire was to "make good yet." His last enlistment was with a view of getting to France. Mr. Horace Smith sentenced him to two months' hard labor.
